Pantheons of Atost

Long ago, before humanity spread across Atost and life had further been seeded, there was but the original spirits and beings. Of these beings, the greatest of them formed greater beings that could make and break. There are many powerful entities to worship across Atost. There are three major pantheons that rule in some form of harmony.

The Dhaer Shesh House Patrons

Civilizations are not built by kings alone. Before there were nations, before there were temples, there were the Houses. Each House represents a single ideal by which society may flourish, and each Patron embodies the eternal responsibility entrusted to that ideal.*
